Cookies are uniquely assigned to Member, and can only be read by a Web Server in the domain that issued the cookie to Member.

One of the primary purposes of cookies is to provide a convenience feature to save Member time. For example, if Member personalizes a web page, or navigates within a site, a cookie helps the site to recall Member specific information on subsequent visits. Hence, this simplifies the process of delivering relevant content and eases site navigation by providing and saving Member preferences and login information as well as providing personalized functionality.

These web beacons may be used by these service providers to place a persistent cookie on Member's computer. This allows the service provider to recognize Member's computer each time Member visits certain pages or emails and compile anonymous information in relation to those page views, which in turn enables Provider and our service providers to learn which advertisements and emails bring Member to Provider's Web Site and/or Provider's Internet Services and how Member uses the site. Provider prohibits web beacons from being used to collect or access Member's personal information.
